DEDICATION

Because he has ever shown a friendly interest and a spirit of cooperation in all student projects and problems, the Legenda staff of nineteen hundred and thirty-one sincerely dedicates this yearbook to Principal I. M. Brock.

FOREWORD

Marching On went Arthur's knights to seek the Holy Grail, Marching On, side by side, like crusaders to right a grievous wrong, until their paths did part but finally met again, though many years had past, on pages of good Arthur's annual book, Legenda of the Lumberjacks.

And now that they have come to grace the book with tournaments and jousts and noble deeds, the Lumberjacks must into life be Marching On, but those young scribes who wrote this book do hope that in the years to come it may remind the students of their days in mighty Arthur's rustic castle spent, built long and many a year ago.

On this long trek through years, it is the staff's desire to pause and thank its fellow knights for their kind help and also faculty members who lent their aid in putting out the book. For to be of service is the annual's greatest aim and may from it all students value get, as Lumberjacks with Arthur's knights go Marching On.

Board of Education

THE Board of Education has under its supervision the complete organization of Saginaw's public school system. The board functions through three main committees. The Educational Committee consists of Mr. Frank E. Bastian, chairman; Mr. Douglas H. Nelson, and Mr. Philip Ittner. The Plan and Maintenance Committee has as its members Mr. Charles G. Milne, chairman, Mr. Ittner, and Mr. Bastian. The Finance Committee is made up of Mr. Leonard A. Henning, chairman, Mr. Charles A. F. Dall, and Mr. Milne. Superintendent Chester F. Miller is ex-officio member of the board. The regular meetings are held on the second Tuesday of each month at 7:30 p. m. in the offices of the Board of Education in the Manual Training building.

The Board of Education has what are known as working policies. They are: to provide buildings and equipment; to thoroughly organize the Saginaw public schools on the six-three-three plan; to make provisions so that pupils will not be housed in rented or temporary quarters unsuited to their needs and requirements; to study the possibilities of growth; to make an intensive study or survey of conditions before the reorganization of any unit or department; to develop a special subject supervisor as a purely instructional officer free from administrative duties; to develop the principal in all schools primarily as a supervising officer; and, in general, to improve the school system in every way possible.

Office

THE office staff is composed of Mr. I. M. Brock, principal; Miss Lillian Morgan, assistant principal and dean of girls; and Miss Helen Meyer, secretary.

Mr. Brock takes charge of the general supervision and administration of the school. Absences and tardiness are managed by Miss Morgan along with miscellaneous duties.

Along with the general work of the office, Miss Meyer takes care of advisory bulletins, checks program cards, assigns students to their classes, takes charge of the payrolls of the teachers and janitors, calls substitutes, and makes out eligibility lists, honor rolls, inventories, and all school records.

Foreign Languages

STUDENTS are not expected to master any foreign language in the three years or less of high school training. The main objective in teaching a language in the high school is to endow the student with a reading ability and speaking knowledge of it. The four languages taught in Arthur Hill are: French, German, Latin, and Spanish.

Latin, a dead language, is considered the basis upon which most foreign tongues were formed. Beginning Latin is only taught in the junior high schools. The second year of Latin, as taught in Arthur Hill, consists of reading easy stories and selections from Caesar's Gallic wars, supplemented by grammar and composition. The third year is devoted to the reading of selections from Cicero's orations and from other authors, and the fourth year to the reading of the first six books of Virgil's "Aeneid."

French, German, and Spanish are classified as the romance languages. The work of the first year of these subjects aims to create an interest in the language and to learn the essentials of grammar. Composition, oral and written, and dictation are stressed. The second year merely intensifies and furthers the work of the first year, and includes the reading of a novel.

By the end of the second year, the student should be able to read and understand the language with a moderate degree of accuracy. French is the only one of the three languages which offers three years of study. French readers, plays, newspaper work, oral compositions, and advanced grammar are taken up in this last year of high school French.

The teachers in the language department include Miss Mary Lewis, chairman and French instructor; Miss Marguerite Bechtold, Spanish; Miss Dorothy Howe, Latin; and Miss Coila Start, German. Mr. Haddock gives part of his time to the teaching of Latin.

Fine-Industrial Arts

THE answer to the problem of developing talents in the fields of music, art, mechanical drawing, general shop, and home economics is found in the fine and industrial arts department.

Three organizations are sponsored by the music department, in which a student may be taught how to play an instrument, to develop his talent, and to cooperate with other members of the group in order to make a harmonious organization. These organizations are the band, orchestra, and brass quartet under the supervision of Mr. L. Russell Johnson.

For those students who are interested in vocal work, the A Cappella choir and the girls' glee club offer an opportunity, with Mr. I. R. McCormack as instructor.

The art department offers two courses. A three year program is given in the general and one year in the commercial field. Miss Elnora Laughlin teaches both courses.

Experience in drawing plans and reading blue prints is gained by the students enrolled in the mechanical drawing department, while the general shop offers the pupils an opportunity to make themselves familiar with the handling of tools. Mr. Robert Thornton directs this work.

The home economics department, under the supervision of Miss Florence E. Wells, includes classes in two semesters cooking, four of sewing, and a semester course in home management. Miss Martha Scott, instructor in foods and home management, is assistant in the department. Miss Wells teaches the classes in sewing and millinery.

Composition and Literature

ENGLISH may be called a one hundred per cent subject because it is the most practical course taught in school. No matter what a person does in life, the ready command of his mother tongue acquired through the study of grammar, composition, and literature, is a distinct asset. For this reason English holds an important place in every student's program.

The department includes a study of English and its allied subject of dramatics, journalism, and public speaking. During the past year several special features were sponsored. The dramatics classes presented short plays weekly for guest groups and entertained at Parent-Teachers' meetings. Three teachers submitted literary work of their classes to the annual National Awards contest. The public speaking department assisted in preparing assembly programs and in the spring sponsored a departmental banquet. The journalism department, through the Arthur Hill News, collected and printed short stories, poems, and essays written by the various English groups.

Miss Ethel Peterson is the chairman of the English department.

Two teachers helping in the department, but not shown above are Miss Marguerite Bechtold and Miss Burnice Gibbs.

Social Science

TWO subjects new to Arthur Hill were introduced into the social science department last year making it possible for students to obtain a major in history. These subjects are ancient history and modern European history. The addition of these two studies makes a total of six divisions in the social science department, which now includes American history, ancient history, economics, modern European history, sociology, and world history.

A course in ancient history is the study of the world from the first known facts up through the middle ages. Modern European history begins at the first part of the seventh century and takes through the year 1924. These subjects require two semesters of work each, but a student may get the essentials of each by taking a course in world history which covers the subject matter of both in one year, although in a more condensed form. The study of American history, which is required for all seniors, includes a course in civil government.

Economics, the science of money earning and money spending, requires one semester, as does sociology, the science of the development, structure, and functioning of social groups.

The teachers for the social science department are as follows: Miss Janice Taylor, chairman, Miss Eloise Bacon, Mrs. Sallie Brown, Miss Burnice Gibbs and Mr. William Lee. Mrs. Brown, Miss Bacon, and Miss Gibbs are American history instructors, while Miss Taylor teaches modern European and world history and Miss Bacon ancient history. Mr. Lee is the economics and sociology instructor. These subjects may be used toward a social science major.

Mathematics and Science

SINCE the industrial revolution, the life of man has become more and more complex. Science and mathematics have become necessary factors in any well-rounded education. Recognizing the need for these subjects, an especially strong department has been built up in the high school curriculum.

The science department offers three fields from which the student may choose. Biology, chemistry, and physics are all taught by a combination experiment-recitation course in which the student proves, by experiment in the laboratory, many of the principles given in the text-book. Outside trips to points of interest are made by the various classes at appropriate times during the school year. The Beta Kappa in the biology section, the Crucible club in the chemistry section, and the H. E. L. M. S. Science club in the physics section are correlated activities which help to maintain student interest in science.

Beginning with algebra III, the mathematics department advances through successive steps to trigonometry, a college preparatory subject. The first semester of algebra is devoted principally to a review of junior high school work, while the second semester is a foundation for higher mathematics. Plane geometry, dealing with figures of two dimensions, is followed by solid geometry. This study investigates the relations and properties of solids, while trigonometry deals with triangles and their measurement.

Dorothy S. Giesel

Mr. A. G. Dersch, in chemistry, Mr. O. L. Poulson, in physics, and Mr. R. E. Trippensee, in biology, make up the faculty for the science department, while Mrs. Dorothy Giesel and Miss Gertrude Vanderhoof are mathematics instructors.

Commercial

THE commercial curriculum is primarily intended to equip students for immediate participation in business. At the same time it permits them to secure a liberal education. This department also offers opportunities for college preparatory students to gain practical commercial training.

Beginning next September, several changes will take place in this department. Twelve and one-half units, including gym, are required in commercial subjects for graduation. Of this number, seven units are prescribed, which leaves students the opportunity of electing five units.

A year of commercial arithmetic will be required in the tenth grade. This is a prerequisite to the year of bookkeeping which is required, but is not offered until the eleventh grade. The commercial arithmetic course will be especially adapted to prepare a student for bookkeeping, and as a result, will make the work in the latter subject much easier. Upon entering high school, the student goes into typewriting III, which is now required. In the twelfth grade, business English and economics are required.

In addition, a student must elect two units from any of the following subjects: commercial art, commercial geography, and history of commerce in the tenth grade; commercial art, commercial law, advertising, and shorthand in the eleventh grade; commercial art, transcription, business administration, bookkeeping, and salesmanship in the twelfth grade. This new commercial curriculum for next year now conforms with the present academic curriculum in that the same number of units are required and the same amount of electives are offered. In planning the course the endeavor was to follow modern trends in commercial education.

The commercial department stimulates initiative among the students by offering many individual awards during the year to those who excel in typing and shorthand. Typing awards consist of twenty-five, forty, fifty, and sixty word pins. Certificates are awarded to shorthand students who write sixty, eighty, and one hundred words per minute. As a further enticement, bronze medals are presented to those who reach the speed of one hundred forty and one hundred sixty words per minute.

A placement bureau, under the direction of Mr. Ralph Reynolds, head of the commercial department, gave its first service to Arthur Hill this year. The purpose of the bureau is to get positions for Arthur Hill graduates by fostering cooperation between Saginaw business men and the school.

Mr. Reynolds registers any Hill student who wishes to make use of the bureau, listing his qualifications and his experience, if any. Letters were written to Saginaw business men with the view of arranging a personal meeting with them to become acquainted with their needs. The bureau, which is under the direction of the commercial department, will probably be able to fill bookkeeping, stenographical, sales and clerical positions most easily.

Glenn Barney

Mr. Reynolds instructs in salesmanship and business administration. He is assisted by the following: Mr. Glenn Barney, business administration and commercial law; Miss Bernice Francis, commercial geography and commercial history; Mr. Edwin Jahns, history of commerce and bookkeeping; Miss Georgiana Jones, shorthand, typing, and filing; Miss Marie Olsen, typing and shorthand; Mr. Eric Senn, economic organization, applied English, and bookkeeping; Miss Mary Thompson, shorthand and typing; Mr. B. G. Wells, arithmetic and bookkeeping.

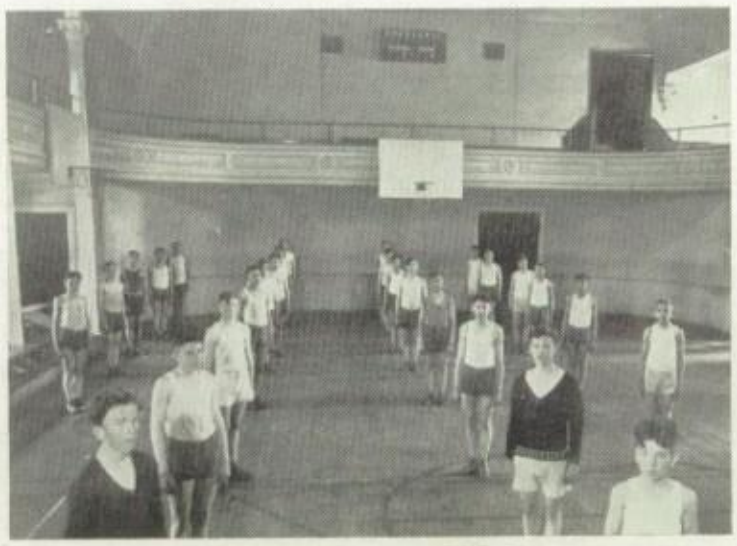
Physical Education

PHYSICAL education is a required unit in Arthur Hill for both boys and girls during the sophomore year. Girls may continue to take gym work thereafter without credit. The course is equally divided between hygiene and gymnastics. Participation in scholastic and intramural sports is encouraged.

The boys are confined to the floor of the Annex and when the weather permits, Thistle field, while the girls work within the precincts of Social hall, and on the grounds adjacent to the Annex.

The home basketball games are contested in the Annex, the football games and track meets on Alumni field, and the baseball games on Thistle field. Golf matches are played on the Golf-More course.

Coach Stanley E. Anderson is head of the athletic department and instructs in the intricacies of basketball, football, and golf. Teaching in the gymnasium and the hygiene classroom also constitutes part of his duties.



Assistant Coach Wilfred T. Schoen has charge of the track squad and assists Coach Anderson with the basketball and football teams. He teaches in required physical education.

The baseball team this season was in charge of Mr. William Lee.

Miss Elizabeth Newman has complete charge of girls' athletic activities, including gymnastics, hygiene, girls' intramurals, and interscholastic teams.

Besides its usual program, the athletic department has sponsored an interesting and diversified system of intramural activity during the noon periods and after school hours. The committee has organized a program with the idea of providing recreation for the largest possible number. It has also served to preserve higher ideals of sportsmanship and the promotion of a friendly spirit.

An electric scoreboard was purchased for the Annex.

"So make thy manhood mightier day by day."

Wells-Stone Scholarship

IN 1893 the Honorable Arthur Hill established four scholarships, one to be conferred at the end of each school year upon the graduate of the high school who ranked highest in scholarship in the studies pursued during the year when graduated. The graduate must, however, have attended the high school two years and have notified the trustees of a desire to pursue a course of study in the University of Michigan.

Students competing for the scholarship must carry twelfth grade English, American history, a course in science or mathematics of junior or senior rank, and a subject from senior electives.

Scholarship students are graded on class recitations, and the averages are computed not further than to three decimal places. Periodical examinations count one-fourth and the class record counts three-fourths. In the final grade the period grades count three-fourths, and the final examination counts one-fourth. Any student dropping to an average below eighty-five per cent in any subject is automatically dropped from the contest.

After the final grades in June, the faculty meet as a committee of the whole and by comparing the averages determine the winner of the scholarship. This consists of two hundred and fifty dollars each year, for a term of four years, for study at the state university.

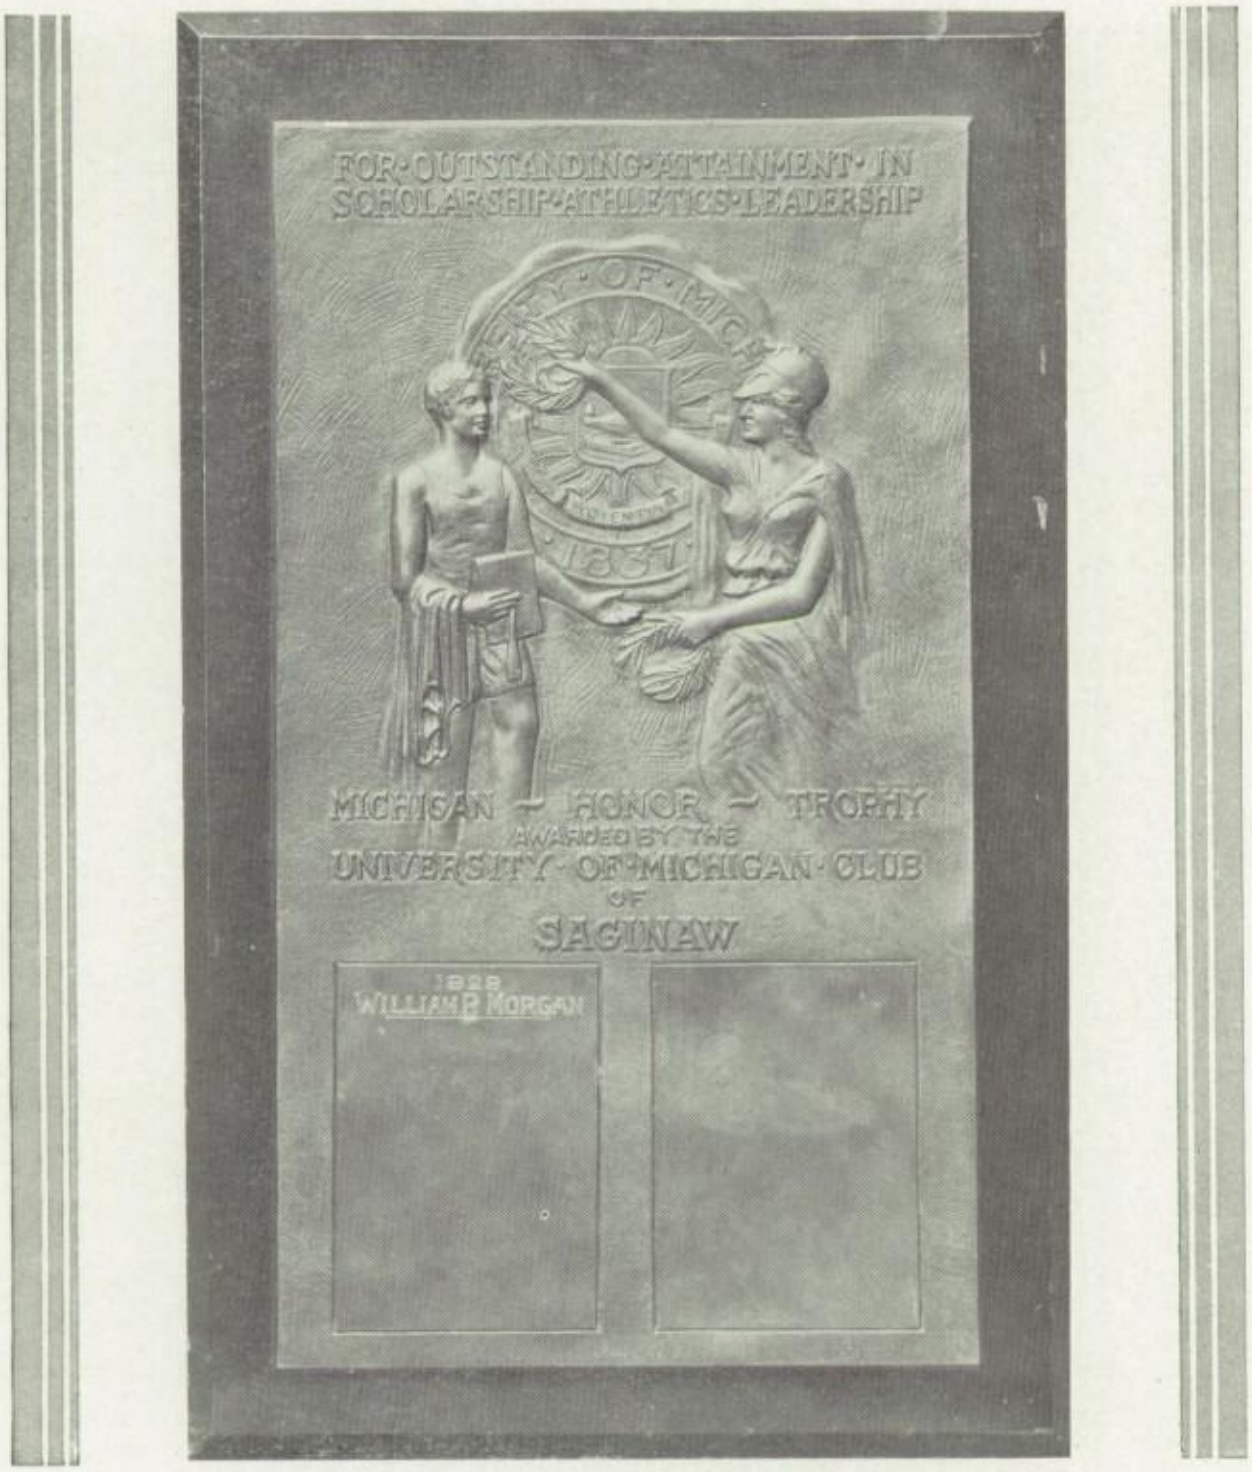
The scholarship awarded in 1895 and quadri-annually afterwards was designated as the Wells-Stone Scholarship, named after two of Arthur Hill's best friends, Farnum C. Stone and Charles W. Wells, who were instrumental in the furtherment of education in Saginaw.

The other three scholarships which were given by the Honorable Arthur Hill are: the John Moore, the Otto Roesser, and Alonzo L. Bingham. These men also did much for education in this city.

All of the awards are for the same amount and each one of these is awarded every four years.

The following have been awarded the Wells-Stone scholarship: Winifred Hubbell, 1895; Leslie B. Dickinson, 1899; Louise Reimold, 1903; Elizabeth Marlat, 1907; Woodward Warrick, 1911; Walter Stork, 1915; Grace Spenner-John Benson, 1919; Marion Meyers, 1923; Carl Schemm, 1927.

Those who have won the other scholarships for the last five years are: Clara Marti, 1926; John Moore; Morgan Curry, 1928, Alonzo L. Bingham; John Lapin, 1929, Otto Roeser; Isabelle McKellar, 1930, John Moore.



Michigan Alumni Honor Trophy

THE Saginaw Branch of the University of Michigan club presented the Michigan Honor Trophy to Arthur Hill high in 1928. This trophy is awarded each year to the junior or senior boy who is judged to be outstanding in scholarship, athletics, and leadership. The tablet has two panels, designed for the engraving of fourteen names.

The committee which selects the winner consists of the principal of the school, junior and senior advisers, and the athletic adviser. The president of the Saginaw University of Michigan Alumni club acts as an ex-officio member.

William Morgan was the first student to be honored. Kenneth Phillips was the 1930 winner.

National Honor Society

THE National Honor Society is a branch of the Phi Beta Kappa, the national honor society for colleges and universities. It has chapters in practically all of the larger secondary schools in the country and contains a membership of over seventy thousand students. When the Arthur Hill chapter was organized in 1930, Miss Lillian Morgan was made honorary sponsor.

To be eligible, a student must stand in the upper third of his class in scholastic average for the entire time spent in high school. Fifteen per cent of the 12A, ten per cent of the 12B, and five per cent of the 11A students may be chosen. Membership was granted to seniors only this year. Any active member who falls below the standards which were the basis for his election to membership is dropped from the chapter by a majority vote of the faculty upon the recommendation of the council. In choosing the students for membership, each teacher rates the students who have been in her classes, taking into consideration their leadership, service, and character. These names are compiled by the scholarship committee.

Twenty-four students in the early part of 1931 and twenty-four during the second semester were granted membership. The committee supervising the selection included Mrs. Dorothy Giesel, chairman, Mr. Edwin Jahns, Mr. Stanley Schubert, Miss Irma Stockdale, and Miss Ella Woodman.

The Arthur Hill group organized the active chapter at the beginning of the second semester. Officers elected were as follows: president, Lester Freidinger; vice-president, Virginia Morgan; secretary, Henrietta Peckover; and treasurer, Mrs. Giesel.

THE Treanor chapter of Quill and Scroll, the National Honor Society for High School Journalists, was introduced in Arthur Hill four years ago at an honor assembly, at which time Mr. Arthur Treanor, editor of the Saginaw Daily News and honorary sponsor, spoke.

Seventeen students were inducted into the chapter during 1930-31: Phyllis Arnold, Dorothy Bieri, Gladys Butts, Ruth Cardy, John Cramer, Jean Ferguson, Dale Goodwin, Gerald Irish, Berton Karow, Elizabeth Koboldt, Virginia Morgan, Jean O'Brien, Ann Schabinger, Betty Spamer, and Marguerete Stier.

The local organization took part in two group contests sponsored by the national chapter with the result that Alice Arnold, Edmund Arnold, Isabel Horton, and Russell Staudacher won recognition in advertising, editorial, news judgment, and vocabulary competitions.

Alice Arnold and Franklin Lewis submitted to The National High School Awards contest, of which the Quill and Scroll is a part, what was judged as one of the best short stories in the Scribner's Magazine contest, and the best feature story written by any student in Michigan for the year 1930-31.

The purpose of the Quill and Scroll is to promote and inculcate high standards of journalism in the students by developing clear, concise, and forceful writing. It also aims to promote leadership and higher ideals of scholarship.

One applying for admittance must be a junior or a senior, rank in the upper third of his class, must have done superior journalistic work, and be approved by the national secretary-treasurer of the society.

Miss Mattie Crump, journalism teacher and adviser of the Arthur Hill News, is active sponsor of the local chapter. The officers during the first semester were: Waldo Vanek, president; Mary Reynolds, vice-president; and Ellen Boergert, secretary-treasurer. The following held office during the second semester: Ellen Boergert, president; Dale Goodwin, vice-president; Gladys Butts, secretary; and Jean O'Brien, treasurer.

Forensic Activities

A MODERATELY successful year in all forensic activities, debating, oratory, and declaiming, was enjoyed at Arthur Hill this year. Miss Burnice Gibbs and Mr. Eric Senn acted as the sponsors of these activities.

An unusual amount of interest was shown in debating, as was evidenced by the fact that over thirty students reported for the first tryout. From these, a five person team, composed of Edgar Duclos, Arthur Dunlap, Bruce Hayden, Rosemary Neuhaus, and David Stewart, was chosen. The affirmative team, composed of Edgar Duclos, Rosemary Neuhaus, and David Stewart, defeated Owosso 2-1, but lost its second debate at Pontiac, 3-0. The negative trio, with Arthur Dunlap, Edgar Duclos, and David Stewart as speakers, defeated both Grand Rapids Central High, and Midland high school by scores of 2-1 and 3-0 respectively. The team fell one point short of the number required to enter the state elimination series of the Michigan High School Debate League, and thus to qualify for the wall plaque awarded to all schools in the elimination tourney. The entire team, accompanied by the winners of the oratorical and declamation contests, attended the State Championship debate, held in the Hill auditorium at Ann Arbor the evening of May 1.

Lorna Schemm represented Arthur Hill at the sub-district contest in oratory, and took second place. By doing so, she won a dictionary with her name in gilt on the cover.

In declamation, Rosemary Neuhaus won the contest at Arthur Hill, and thereby won the right to represent Arthur Hill at Bay City. Here she also placed second in the contest, and likewise won a dictionary.

The tea dance, "The Forensic Frolic," with Art Noey's orchestra furnishing the music, was given by the debating team on May 7. The profits from the party helped to pay for a page in the Legenda.

National Athletic Scholarship Society

THE purpose of this society, a national organization for secondary schools, is to create a higher standard of scholastic average among those participating in the athletic program of the high schools.

In order to become eligible for membership the candidate, the entry is restricted to boys, must have achieved an academic average for three consecutive semesters that is higher than the general average of his class. He must also have earned an athletic monogram in at least one of the four major sports, football, baseball, basketball, and track, or two minor awards in minor sports, the only junior sport at present in Arthur Hill high school being golf. General character, good citizenship, and the highest level of sportsmanship are considered in those seeking membership and encouraged in those holding the honor.

The club was installed in the Arthur Hill high in 1926. The initial charter member was Ferdinand Piaszek, prominent in athletics, class activities, organizations, and school publications.

Coach Stanley E. Anderson and Assistant Coach Wilfred Schoen are sponsors of the group and qualifications for entrance are examined by them.

Because of the fewness of members, and the lack of a tangible object, the organization has not held meetings nor has been active in any manner.

The 1929-30 roll call included: Elmer Braun, Willard Ducharme, Curtis Hovis, William Morgan, Kenneth Phillips. The 1930-31 group takes in Fred Beckmann, Alex Collier, John Cramer, Stanley Fisher, Lester Freidinger, Albert Jahn, Arnold Nuechterlein, Frank Ribble, and Fred Stork.

Two of the members, Fred Beckmann and Frank Ribble, are three-sport men. Alex Collier and Fred Stork have been awarded letters in two major sports.

Recognitions

NUMEROUS students of Arthur Hill have participated in competitions outside of the school and have won recognition.

Frank Abele received first place for his stamp collection in the Hobby Show at the Y. M. C. A. on New Year's Day.

Alice Arnold, 11A, was one of five from Michigan to place her short story in The National High School Awards contest for 1931 and received honorable mention in an editorial contest sponsored by the Qui'l and Scroll.

Edmund Arnold, news editor, gained highest award of the Michigan contestants in the Quill and Scroll group contests in vocabulary and news judgment. He won the same position in the advertisement writing contest.

Charlotte Badgero was recognized for her book review in the Detroit Free Press of April 26. She reviewed a new book by Jane Abbott, "Laughing Last."

Eleanor Carpenter and Ruth Dennis's illustrations of "London Bridges," and "Wink 'em, Blink 'em, and Nod" were rated the most attractive by city officials. They have been placed in the John Moore kindergarten room.

Lester Freidinger, president of the Hi-Y club, was named second vice-president of the Older Boys' Conference by twelve hundred high school students at Bay City.

Weston Golden won first prize in the junior stamp division of the Hobby Show.

Louise Gragg won a photograph album as third prize on a poster entered in the contest sponsored by the cast of "Robin Hood."

Marie Hahn gained recognition for her collection of scrap books at the Hobby Show at the Y. M. C. A.

Franklin Lewis, post graduate, was first prize winner in Michigan with his feature story in The National Awards contest.

George Reid, 11A, was awarded first place in the current events contest at the South Eastern Michigan Journalistic Association convention held at Flint Central, March 7.

Robert Rosin won a Parker fountain pen as first prize for a poster entered in a contest sponsored by the cast of "Robin Hood." The "Scholastic" placed Robert's entry in the fourth national high school art exhibit that is being displayed at the Carnegie Institute in Pittsburg.

William Schnarr took first place with a model airplane at the Y. M. C. A.

Russell Staudacher won fifth place with his editorial in a Quill and Scroll group contest.

Harry Woods received the bird-house building award at the Hobby Show.

Eighteen art students were awarded twenty-six prizes at the annual art exhibit sponsored by the Saginaw Woman's club. The prize winners and their ratings are: Harry Bartlett, pen and ink, second; pencil sketches, first; and book ends, first; Barbara Carpenter, water color, first; Eleanor Carpenter, charcoal, second; Ruth Dennis, pencil sketch, second; James Ellenwood, charcoal, second; Fred Eller, commercial art, second; Avalon Gowans, lettering, second; Genevieve Hicks, batiks, second; Frances Jones, commercial art, honorable mention; batiks, first; Dorothy King, batiks, third; Fred Krause, wood carving, first; Betty Mayette, design, second; William Oberschmidt, monograms, first; William Radtke, lettering, first; Dorothea Rippberger, charcoal, first; charcoal, honorable mention; Robert Rosin, design, first; monograms, second; Betty Spamer, water color, first; portrait, third; pencil sketch, second; Reynard Vibert, batiks, honorable mention; Dorothy Zimmerman, commercial art, third.

Parent-Teachers' Association

THE meetings of the Parent-Teachers' Association were held on the first Wednesday of each month. Officers, speakers, play-casts, and choruses appeared on the programs. The theme for the meetings of the year was "Vocational and Economic Efficiency."

During the first semester, the following officers were chosen: Mrs. David Stewart, president; Mrs. Leroy Rankin, mother vice-president; Miss Lillian B. Morgan, teacher vice-president; Mr. George Murray, father vice-president; Mrs. Frederick Lees, secretary; Mrs. Frank Dewey, corresponding secretary and historian; and Mrs. George Murray, treasurer. The chairmen of the various committees were: Mrs. Arthur Parent, Child Welfare magazine; Mrs. E. T. Labadie, publicity; Mr. Willis Fisher, membership; Mrs. Leroy Rankin, refreshments; Mr. Murray, hospitality; and Mr. I. M. Brock, principal. Officers elected for 1931-32 are as follows: Mrs. Stewart, president; Mr. Murray, father vice-president; Mrs. Fred Richard, mother vice-president; Miss Gertrude Vanderhoof, teacher vice-president; Miss Georgiana Jones, recording secretary; Mrs. Dewey, historian and corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Murray, treasurer.

The association conducted Open Night for the Hillite parents; a bake sale was sponsored as a means of raising a welfare fund; and a P. T. A. bazaar was organized at Christmas with Mrs. W. A. Paxson as general chairman. The proceeds of the bazaar were turned over to a P. T. A. student aid fund.

For the recognition of excellence in scholarship, the Parent-Teachers' Association presented the school with two banners, one awarded each marking period to the advisory group with the highest scholastic standing, the other to the group showing the greatest improvement in class rating over the former period.

Hi-Y Club

TO CREATE, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community, high standards of Christian character, was the purpose of the re-organization of the Hi-Y club at Arthur Hill high school in 1925 by Mr. Charles Crittenden, Y. M. C. A. boys' work secretary. The four C's, clean speech, clean sportsmanship, clean scholarship, and clean living, are the club's platform. It strives to create a greater friendship between members of the club and outsiders through its many activities.

In carrying out its aim of service to the school, the organization sponsors many activities. The Thanksgiving assembly, the Hobo Parade, intramural sports, and all-school parties were given by the club.

In order to further interest in the interclass program of sports, the club awarded a loving cup to the winner of the volleyball tournament, Mr. Stanley Schubert's 12A advisory group.

The pre-Turkey game activities, the assembly and the Hobo Parade, were methods of furthering "Clean Sportsmanship."

Two joint meetings were held with Saginaw high. There were two all-valley meetings, one at Bay City and one at the local Y. M. C. A.

This year the club sent Fred Beckmann, John Cramer, and Lester Freidinger to the State Older Boys' Conference at Bay City and three to the Y Camp at Hayo-Went-Ha on Old Torch Lake.

The club has four kinds of meetings: business meetings, potluck suppers, home meetings, and noon day luncheons, made possible by Miss Scott's advanced cooking classes.

The officers are as follows: Lester Freidinger, president; Charles Mayne, vice-president; John Cramer, secretary; Fred Beckmann, treasurer and chaplain; Mr. Ralph Reynolds, Mr. I. M. Brock, Mr. O. L. Poulson, faculty advisers; and Mr. Charles Crittenden, Y. M. C. A. boys' work secretary.

The club program was opened in the first business meeting, September 16. Two weeks later Mr. Ralph Reynolds, commercial department head, was officially chosen faculty sponsor to replace Mr. Leland Medsker, who transferred to Maywood, Illinois.

The Hi-Y, with the Girl Reserves, held a wiener roast on October 20.

Fall inductions to the society, November 17, saw Lyman Bittman, Walter Cramer, James Keating, Avery Paxson, Arthur Renwick, Frank Ribble, Jack Tucker, and Louis White initiated into the group.

The Thanksgiving assembly, with Lester Freidinger as chairman and Harold Gaertner and Maurice Witbrodt on the committee, was followed on the morning of the game by the second annual "Hobo Parade." Maurice Witbrodt as chairman, headed the committee of George Ross and Don Wells.

The day before Christmas, the baskets which were filled by the club, were distributed among the unfortunates of the city. Allan Fisher, chairman, Walter Cramer and Louis White made up the committee in charge.

Lester Freidinger and David Stewart welcomed the incoming sophomores in the special assembly, January 28.

Mr. Frank A. Picard, prominent city attorney, spoke on "The Trial of Christ From a Lawyer's Viewpoint," at the Hi-Y sponsored assembly, February 19.

Eleven fellows were recognized as members on March 16. Donald Berg, Ralph Cole, Robert Johnson, Paul Noble, Roy Paquette, Edward Ledtke, Erwin Lauckner, Fred Riser, Jack Schindehette, Earl Seymore, and Wallace Thompson.

Waldo Vanek was chairman of the committee in charge of the Hi-Y-Girl Reserve banquet, March 25.

May saw three joint meetings with Saginaw high, May 4; co-host with Eastern in an All-Valley joint meeting, May 21; and a week-end trip with Saginaw high to Wagner Lake, the Y camp.

The year's program was concluded with the installation of new officers, June 5.

Girl Reserves

THE Girl Reserve club has the largest enrollment of any organization in high school. It is the only group for which there are no restrictions as to membership. Keeping in mind their slogan, "To face life squarely," and their purpose, "To find and give the best," the club started its 1930-31 program.

The first activity of the year was the "sophomore party," given September 19 to help the new girls get acquainted with the girls of the club. A joint party once a month with the Saginaw high school club included the Pancake Supper, Folk Festival, the Santa Surprise, and a faculty tea.

Twice a month meetings displayed Girl Reserve talent. At Thanksgiving time, ten families were supplied with food. Two all-school parties, the "Co-ed Caper," and the "Spring Tonic" were given.

Together with the Hi-Y club, the group drew up a resolution promising the sophomores a friendly welcome upon their arrival at Arthur Hill, which was signed by all the members. With the Hi-Y, a banquet on March 25 carried the theme "The Ideal Boy and Girl." The speakers were Barbara Clark, Miss Elizabeth Newman, Mrs. Richard Packard, Mr. Ralph Reynolds, Ann Schabinger, and Jack Tucker.

Council meetings were held every two weeks, which consisted of the sponsors and officers of both Saginaw high and Arthur Hill Girl Reserves. Under its direction a series of eight hobby groups was held at the Y. W. C. A. on Thursday afternoon from October 23 to December 18, inclusive.

The annual Spring Ceremonial, held at the First Congregational church, April 19, recognized new members and brought out the symbolism of the club work.

Mothers of the girls were honored at the "Ma and Me" banquet May 8.

This array of events was made possible through Miss Dorothy Roseborough, Y. W. C. A. girls' work secretary, the sponsorship

Arts-Dramatics Club

THE Arts-Dramatics club was organized by Mr. Stanley Schubert for the purpose of cultivating an interest in dramatic art.

The major activity of its members during the year was earning points toward pins. Points are offered for the following: being a club officer, having perfect attendance, reading plays, affecting miniature stage sets, costuming a play, making costume plates, drawing stage designs, writing original one-act plays, being cast in major or minor parts, directing plays, making up cast, staging sets, and compiling a scrapbook of famous actors, authors, and their plays.

The major production given during the year was Dickens's "Christmas Carol," in which each member had some part, if not in the play, as stage manager or assistant director.

The club gave matinee and evening performances of one-act plays, charging a small sum for admission to pay for this page in the annual.

To become a member, students are required to write to the club secretary applying for membership. A "C" grade or over in all subjects and a good school record are required. If the applicant fulfills all requirements, he is voted into the club. The casts of the junior and senior plays are usually taken in as members.

Arthella Bate

The club meetings are held every Monday afternoon at 3:30 in room 5 at John Moore.

This year's officers were: Arthella Bate, president; Julia Brown, vice-president; Ann Schabinger, secretary; Margaret McDonald, treasurer; and Nellie Blakeman, reporter. No second term elections were made.

Alpha Rho Tau

TWENTY-TWO students of Arthur Hill met with Miss Elnora Laughlin, art instructor, in February, 1929, and organized the Alpha Rho Tau. The group chose for its requirements to have a "B" average in art, and for the purpose, to learn to make a profitable use of leisure time.

At the beginning of this year, Betty Spamer was elected president; Eleanor Carpenter, vice-president; and Elaine Selvin, secretary-treasurer.

An Amos 'n' Andy float was awarded fourth place in the Hobo Parade.

Oriental was the theme of the "Dragon's Drag," an all-school party given November 14. Sacred symbols of the dragon and a venerable Buddha created the Eastern effect.

A Christmas party for thirty small friends was given December 24. Cloth dogs, dolls, and a variety of wooden boats, made by the members, were given the children.

Betty Spamer

Tooling leather purses and key rings, the designing of silver bracelets, batik dyeing, and the making of silk wall-hangings were included in the second semester activities.

Members assisted with the scenery and art work for "The Charm School," "The Poor Nut," and "The Firefly." Two nursery rhymes, "London Bridge," and "Wink 'em, Blink 'em, and Nod," were illustrated with original designs by two members for wall hangings of the first grade room at John Moore school.

Scarcely an event of any importance was unheralded by artistic announcements, contrived by the members of Alpha Rho Tau.

Miss Laughlin's students won twenty-one first places in the city art exhibit sponsored by the Saginaw Woman's club.

Home Economics Club

THE Home Economics club was organized in Arthur Hill in September, 1925. The purpose of the group is to promote an interest in home economics, to create good fellowship among the members, and to be of service to the school. All girls having taken home economics in high school are eligible for membership.

The following officers were elected for the first semester: Ruth Cross, president; Betty Spamer, vice-president; Gladys Arndt, secretary; and Jane Kurtz, treasurer. Miss Florence Wells and Miss Martha Scott served as sponsors.

Varied programs occupied the girls each Wednesday with a potluck supper once a month. The chief social event sponsored during the first semester was "The Witches' Tea Dance," held on October 31. At Christmas, gifts and food were sent to unfortunate families and several little friends were entertained at an after-school party, which included a tree, Santa, and gifts made by the girls. A farewell potluck for the mid-year graduates closed the term program.

Ruth Cross

Marie Neuenkirch

At the beginning of the second semester, the following girls were elected to leadership: Marie Neuenkirch, president; Frieda Felsing, vice-president; Ione Schuknecht, secretary; and Alta Schuknecht, treasurer.

The social highlights during the term were a tea dance, "April Showers," sponsored April 17, followed by a club hike and roast at Tourist park on May 13.

Le Cercle Francais

LE CERCLE Francais was organized in 1927-28 for the purpose of furthering the interest in French life, customs, literature, and art. The requirements for membership are one year of French with a "C" average. Miss Mary Lewis, French instructor, is the club sponsor.

The officers for the first semester were: Henrietta Peckover, president; Nellie Blakeman, vice-president; Dorothea Rippberger, secretary, and Jane Knoop, treasurer.

Those elected to hold offices during the second semester were: Virginia Morgan, president; Dorothea Rippberger, vice-president; Elizabeth Walton, secretary; and Jeanette Badgero, treasurer; Jane Knoop, reporter; Lolita Ardussi, pianist. The programs were planned by the vice-president, assisted by Emma Schnarr.

Henrietta Peckover

Virginia Morgan

During the year various programs have been carried out. Letters received from French correspondents were read. Several members gave reviews of French short stories. Two humorous one-act French plays were presented by members for November 20. The plays, typical of French life, were "Les Martins au Restaurant," and "A la Consultation."

The French and Spanish clubs sponsored a Christmas party at Social hall, December 18. The club was invited to attend a French lecture at Bay City Junior College on January 16. A tea dance, "The Cosmopolitan Cut-up," given by the language department, was enjoyed on April 30. Virginia Morgan was general chairman.

Der Deutsche Verein

DER Deutsche Verein was organized in the spring of 1929 by a group of students who wished to acquire a better understanding and greater appreciation of German life, customs, and arts. The requirement of a "C" average restricts the membership of the organization to small group.

Mrs. Marie Bremer told the Verein about her native city, Berlin, in one of the most interesting programs of the year.

School life in Germany was the topic of Mr. Ignace Hauffman's discussion.

An imaginery tour through several of the most famous cities of Germany was the form of a series of meetings. At Christmas time a real Berlin "Wiehnachts Fest" was held with the Saginaw high club.

Alvin Hacker

Frederick Ware

A "Wandervogel" hike out into the country was the spring feature of the club's activities.

The last meeting of the organization was another joint meeting at Saginaw high, at which both schools contributed to the program.

During the first semester the club was under the leadership of Alvin Hacker. Harvey Nitz as vice-president, Rosalie Schleicher as secretary, and Leona Ellsworth as treasurer completed the executive roster. The second term officers listed Frederick Ware, president; Rosalie Schleicher, vice-president; and Jean Fuerbringer, secretary-treasurer. Miss Coila Start, German instructor, but who formerly taught English and Latin, is the active sponsor.

Spanish Club

WITH Miss Marguerite Bechtold, Spanish instructor, as sponsor, the Spanish club was organized in the fall of 1930, at which time Eleanor Carpenter was elected president with Ruth Crawford, Edmund Arnold, and Carl Sursaw assisting her in the offices of vice-president, secretary, and treasurer, respectively. The requirement for membership is one semester of Spanish with a "C" average.

The club decided to have a meeting every other Thursday. A permanent program committee was appointed for the semester. Spanish stories were read, several songs were memorized, and a play was presented during the year.

Plans were begun for a joint Christmas party with Le Cercle Francais, which took place on December 18 in Social Hall.

Eleanor Carpenter

Elizabeth Koboldt

Elizabeth Koboldt was chosen as leader at the beginning of the second semester, with Ruth Dennis, vice-president; Ann Schabinger, secretary; and Carl Sursaw, treasurer.

A change in program plans resulted in alternating business and social gatherings. A constitution was formed, discussed, and adopted.

The Spanish section was in charge of the refreshments on April 30, when the four language departments united for a party for all students taking a language. "The Cosmopolitan Cut-up" took place in Social Hall. Games and dancing under the leadership of Mr. C. F. Van Ducen, city recreation director, were enjoyed.

Beta Kappa

THE biology club was organized during the second semester of 1929-30. The original members were all members of a biology class who wished to extend their knowledge of the science of living things, and to learn more about the men who had exposed the secrets of nature.

The work began early in September, 1930, with many new students and a lively interest in the activities ahead. Margaret Fruechtel was elected president; Edith Alderton, vice - president; Arnold Morrison, secretary; and Russell Arch, treasurer.

The first social activity took the form of a hike to the city zoo. From there all adjourned to the outside fireplace in the Tourist camp. The entertainment took the form of stories, and roasted wieners and cider were enjoyed.

Margaret Fruechtel

Mary Day

A point system was devised to recognize work of various kinds in the carrying out of a program for the club. In the meantime, the constitution was finished and accepted early in the second semester.

The second semester election was held at which Mary Day was elected president; Fred George, vice-president; Russell Harris, secretary; and Gladys Williams, treasurer.

With the coming of spring came the invitation of the out-of doors, so the club went for a hike and a trip to the zoo at Detroit.

Mr. R. E. Trippensee, the club sponsor, came to Arthur Hill two years ago to take over the work in the biology section of the science department. It was through him the club was formed.

A Cappella Choir

THE A Cappella Choir was formed this year under the direction of Mr. I. R. McCormack, music instructor. Students interested in music may elect the choir as a class for which credit is given. A Cappella singing began in the twelfth century and was used to a great extent by the churches. The word "a cappella" itself means the singing of sacred selections without any form of musical accompaniment.

The first semester group elected as president, Lorna Schemm, while Lawrence Renshaw was chosen vice-president; Ruby Burrier, secretary; Robert Cay, treasurer; Arlene Labadie, historian; and Miriam Whitney, correspondent. The second semester group elected Lawrence Renshaw as president and Franklin Lewis as correspondent, while the other officers were re-elected.

Lawrence Renshaw

Lorna Schemm

The choir sang for the first time at the mid-year graduation exercises. During the Christmas season chorals were sung and concerts offered at the Ames Methodist church and Epworth Methodist church. The choir appeared before the Parent-Teachers' Association and various other clubs of Saginaw. Its contribution was three numbers to the Music Festival held last March.

The opera, "The Firefly," by Otto Hauerbach and Rudolf Friml, was presented May 22, at North Intermediate school.

An enjoyable time was experienced by those who attended the music banquet. Mr. Jacob A. Evanston of the Flint choir was called upon to give a demonstration and an address

Arthur Hill Band

UNDER the direction of Mr. L. Russell Johnson, Arthur Hill's band has completed an active season.

The football season found the band prepared to lend its assistance and no doubt the organization was partly responsible for some of Arthur Hill's spirit.

At the basketball games the band appeared at both home and out of town contests.

Besides pepping up the games, the band offers students an opportunity to play some musical instrument. A large number of boys and girls took advantage of this opportunity.

The group took a prominent part in the "Music Festival," which was given March 6 at South Intermediate school and March 13 at North Intermediate. The program included "Inspiration Overture," by A. Hayes, and "Stars and Stripes Forever," by John Phillip Sousa.

Largely through the efforts of Mr. Johnson, South school music instructor and director of Arthur Hill's band and orchestra, the organization has been outstanding. Glenn Westman, a June graduate, assisted Mr. Johnson as drum major.

The thirty-five instruments are played by the following students:

PLAYING at assemblies, special programs, and class plays was the work of the orchestra this year under the leadership of Mr. L. Russell Johnson.

A college preparatory student may elect as many courses in music as he wishes, but not more than two units of credit will be counted toward graduation. Therefore, if a student takes more than two units in music, he arranges his program so as to have more than sixteen and one-half units at the time of graduation.

Fourteen advanced members of the group belonged to the all-city orchestra which was organized last year. Mr. S. L. Flueckinger, supervisor of music, directs this organization. Arthur Hill's representatives were Walter Cramer, Richard Dankert, Joe Deike, Carl Glave, Pierce Hiscock, Florence Lynch, Catherine O'Donnell, Roy Paquette, John Rice, Wilfred Root, Leon Simkins, Jack Spatz, Elizabeth Teck, and Dorothy Thrasher. The all-school orchestra played at several functions during the year.

The all-state orchestra convened at Ann Arbor, April 30 and May 1. Eight students from Arthur Hill attended. They were: Richard Dankert, Joe Deike, Carl Glave, Pierce Hiscock, Florence Lynch, Roy Paquette, Wilfred Root, and Jack Spatz.

Violins: Alfred Belski, Walter Cramer, Richard Dankert, Joe Deike, Russell Eddy, Luella Haggerty, Dorothy Jochen, Leonard Loessel, Evelyn Lonsway, John Rice, Wilfred Root, Elizabeth Teck, Claude Goulding, Mary Nichols. Viola: Florence Lynch. Cello: Florence Miller. Bass Violin: Richard Nuechterlein, James Wellington. Clarinets: Bruce Frye, George Spiess. Flutes: Herbert Fierke. Bassoon: Carl Glave. Trumpet: Robert Johnson, Robert Miles, Leon Simkins, Jack Spatz. Trombone: Harold Comfort, Pierce Hiscock. French Horns: Roy Paquette, Dorothea Thrasher, Catherine O'Donnell. Tympani: Glenn Westman. Drums: Richard Grams, Alice Jones. Piano: Geraldine Jacobi. Baritone: Wilbert Hiscock.

Crucible Club

THE Arthur Hill Crucible club was organized in 1922 by Mr. A. G. Dersch, the chemistry instructor.

Scholarship forms the main requisite to membership. Membership requirements are "B" work in chemistry with no other grade lower than a "C."

The activities of the Crucibles for 1930-31 were varied. The Saturday before the Thanksgiving Day game, the club gave its annual good-will party at which the football teams of the opposing schools were guests of honor. The second all-school party was presented as the "Spring Thaw."

The ancient black hearse entered by the organization in the "Hobo Parade" won first place in the float division.

The educational and social biweekly meetings were supplemented by trips through city factories.

An all-day trip to the Ford River Rouge plant in Detroit is an annual affair with the club. This factory is one of the best sources in Michigan for the study of modern industry and science. The group took a tour through the Dow Chemical works at Midland.

John Cramer led the club both semesters as president, with Arnold Nuechterlein assisting in the vice-president's chair. Allan Fisher held the post of secretary-treasurer during the first term. This office was divided in the second term into the secretaryship, held by George Burk, and the treasurer's office which David Stewart filled.

John Cramer

The Crucibles co-operated with the assembly committee by offering a chemistry program. John Cramer was chairman, with Robert Cay, Allan Fisher, and David Stewart, who gave speeches; and Edmund Arnold and Bruce Hayden, who presented a skit.

PUBLICATIONS

The Students in publication work have an opportunity to develop cooperation, punctuality, organization and leadership in actual school service.

THE purpose of publications in Arthur Hill is to give publicity ro the school and community and to offer the students an outlet for purposeful writing. This purpose is made possible by the two school publications, The Arthur Hill News and The Arthur Hill News-Legenda.

Students wishing to work on The Arthur Hill News should first take journalism I, which gives the student the same credit as 11B English for college entrance and an English major. This course may be taken during the 10A and 11B semesters. Staff members are chosen from successful journalism I students who are put to work as reporters during their second semester. Board members, those students who organize and edit the paper, are selected from students in journalism III and IV who have had experience in writing and news gathering.

A course in journalism develops in the student a sense of organization, leadership, punctuality, and co-operation. It gives an insight into the newspaper and literary world and, at the same time, offers practice in writing. Before signing up for journalism, however, a student should have a fundamental knowledge of grammar, be dependable and tactful, and most of all should like to write. Those students who comply with the requirements are eligible to press conventions and other honors with which the staff is concerned.

The Arthur Hill News is a weekly publication which receives its support from advertising and the Student Union ticket. During the past year, two national contests gave the News First Honor rating and Quill and Scroll gave recognition for seven contest places. Two staff members were sent to the National Scholastic Press Association at Cleveland, Ohio, in December, while eleven students represented the paper at the state press meet at Ann Arbor. Literary, home-coming, football, basketball, and departmental special issues were published.

The Arthur Hill News-Legenda, the school's yearbook, was compiled throughout the two semesters for publication in June by two groups of students, the board and staff. The board was made up of class and News delegates, while the staff was formed by advisory groups representatives who were interested in publication work. The art, business, and editorial staffs were chosen from the combined board and staff and carried out the specialized work of the book. The 1930-31 senior edition, which took the place of the June issues of the News, was a two semester project. The time gave the staff opportunity to study the field of annuals and effect a representative organization which attempted to compile a pictorial review of the school year.

Exceptionally fine work on either The Arthur Hill News or The Legenda is rewarded by election to The Quill and Scroll, National Honor Society for High School Journalists.

THE 1931 LEGENDA

The June Edition of The Arthur Hill News

THE beginning of school last September put a group of nine representatives with six News board members in room 6 last hour every day to lay the preliminary plans for the 1931 News-Legenda. The first weeks were spent in discussing an ideal yearbook. Each member of the group reported on some phase of annual work. The workers were soon increased by a representative elected from each of the forty advisory groups.

The election of an editor-in-chief and three associates started work in earnest. The explanation of annual duties and the discussion and final vote on a theme filled the program for a few weeks.

The beginning of December saw definite assignments given out and the planning of the dummy began. Negotiations with the printer and the engraver were finally concluded. The Legenda staff set out to write a volume.

Copy poured in; typewriters clicked; blue pencils scratched; editors chased; copy-readers struggled. Copy was materializing. Cameras went into action; groups were photographed; designs were penned, rejected, revised; the art section was taking form. Office doors reverberated with knocking; sales talks convinced business men; advertisements started coming. The business staff was on the job.

Then started the subscription campaign. Receipts were exchanged for half dollars; representatives reported; sales percentages were checked. The drive went over the top with Miss Olsen's 11A group getting a hundred per cent the first day and nine others following in line immediately.

Then the monotypes ground out their work galley by galley. Typographical errors were checked; corrected; rechecked; O. K.'d.

Pictures were inspected; groups identified; snapshots sized. Engraver's proofs were measured and placed.

Then the odds and ends of type and pictures were formed into pages. More corrections. The Legenda was resembling a book.

The final week. The rush and bustle. The pleasant, orderly confusion of the board room. The last minute check.

Then . . . the thrill of thrills. OFF THE PRESS! !

Critically inspecting the work of months gave a feeling of pride in a job well done.

Distribution. Comment. More inspection and advice to the juniors who will have another chance.

It's all over but the book, the 1931 Legenda, which will last as long as Arthur Hill is remembered.

Lettermen's Club

WINNING a major or two minor letters in any sport qualifies a fellow for entrance to Arthur Hill's athletic society, the Lettermen's club. Being composed of athletes, the aims and interests of the club are naturally centered upon sports and sportsmanship. During the past year the organization promoted a keener interest in athletics, clean sportsmanship, and high standards of competition.

The officers were: Fred George, president; Harold Gaertner, vice-president; and Charles Mayne, secretary-treasurer. The club was sponsored by Coach Stanley E. Anderson and Assistant Coach Wilfred Schoen.

The intramural basketball program was aided during the winter months by the members of the monogram society. The Lettermen served as officials at the contests and some of the advisory groups were coached by members.

Fred George

At the close of the tournament, the club awarded a banner to the champions, Mr. Trippensee's Boilermakers.

An all-school "Hard Times" party, featuring a novel decoration scheme of newspapers, was the organization's contribution to the social twirl.

The club sponsored an assembly on April 1. The principal speaker was Mr. Roy Dang, representative of the Detroit Y. M. C. A. basketball team to Denmark. Fred George acted as chairman. Lester Freidinger and Harold Gaertner gave short speeches, and monograms were awarded to basketball men. Nine members of the club were elected to the National Athletic Scholastic Society. They are: Fred Beckmann, Alex Collier, John Cramer, Stanley Fisher, Lester Freidinger, Albert Jahn, Arnold Nuechterlein, Frank Ribble, and Fred Stork.

Football

WHILE the 1930 football season was not particularly gratifying in figures of games won and lost, it furnished its high lights, its finer moments, and its incidents of interest.

Pre-season material bespoke a most successful fall seige, but a long series of injuries and accidents, that earned the Hillmen the name "Andy's Cripples," blighted the hopes for a winning team. Nevertheless, the fighting spirit was there and the "never-say-die" idea was put into practice in most of the games.

Some compensation to the string of losses was the all-state honor rating of Avery Paxson, center, and the all-valley position tendered Howard Hanson, Hillite tackle.

September 27

Bad Axe 0—Arthur Hill 33

Coach Anderson experimented with two teams, both of which had an easy time. After three of the touchdowns, Beckmann kicked goal, the first place kick in four years.

October 4

St. Andrews 0—A. H. 12

The Hills met some determined opposition in a game which is rapidly becoming traditional. Held scoreless in

Fred George—Quarterback

Freddy assumed the triple load of captain, passer, and kicker. An infected foot kept him out of the Turkey Day game.

Fred Beckmann—Guard

Field goals returned to grace a Hillite score-sheet after a four years' absence, when Becky took over a regular guard position.

Alex Collier—Halfback

Al started the season as an end, but the asset of accurately tossing passes dictated his shift to the backfield.

Lester Cradit—Tackle

At ripping holes in the line and stopping the onrush of the opposition, Les's superiority was clearly shown.

John Cramer—End

Always where he should be,—that's Johnny. His ability to get down the field under punts won him his letter.

Howard Ducharme-Halfback

Arthur Hill's speed merchant, Dewey, was one of "Andy's Cripples," but he was also the most consistent ground gainer.

Howard Ducharme

the first half, they came back strong and outplayed the parochials in every department.

October 11

Lansing East. 19—A. H. 13

Arthur Hill met defeat in a heartbreaking close. After having led throughout the first three quarters, they allowed Lansing to score twice in the last quarter by intercepted passes, the last time just as the game ended.

October 18

Flint Central 0—A. H. 0

Playing in the first snowfall, the Hills outplayed the Indians, but fell short offensively. Hanson, Cradit, and Paxson put up the best line exhibition of the year.

October 25

Owosso 0—Arthur Hill 6

The Owossonians proved much harder competition than was expected. The "Cripple Jinx" that so characterized the season, started with this game.

November 1

Pontiac 34—Arthur Hill 0

The Hillmen took to the road in meeting one of the contenders for state championship. The line played well, especially the ends, Trier and Cramer.

November 8

Bay City 7—Arthur Hill 0

Although weakened by injuries, the line with Wagner, Seymore, and Glave as replacements, outplayed the vis-

Carl Glave—Guard

Cully moved from a back to a guard midway in the season, but it was on the line that he displayed his real ability.

Howard Hanson—Guard

Lots of scrap,—that summarizes the causes for Hick's success in three years of playing on the first team.

Edmund Markey—Fullback

A power on both defense and offense, Ed was the hardest tackling Lumberjack and also the best line-smasher.

Andrew Maturen—End

Andy's ability to snare passes made him a valuable man on the team. He also did some passing and kicking.

Avery Paxson—Center

It was Avery's ability to collect tackles that caused him to be named on the Detroit Times' All-State team.

Frank Ribble—Halfback

Schubble spent most of the season on the sick list, but his swiftness in returning punts made him a valuable man.

itors. The Wolves scored on a misplay late in the game.

November 15

Flint North. 35—A. H. 0

The state champions brought one of the best prep teams ever seen in Saginaw. The "Jinx" continued when Ed Markey, star Hill fullback, injured his back and hip, and Howard Ducharme suffered injuries.

November 25

Saginaw East. 14—A. H. 0

The annual Turkey Day gamble climaxed the season. Several regulars were unable to play because of injuries, inincluding Captain George, Riedlinger, and Cradit.

Running true to form, the Hillite defense was good, but the offense was missing except during a spurt in the third period when the losers threatened with five first downs.

SECOND TEAM

THE reserves participated in two games, losing both to Eastern in battles for the Lions Club's "Little Brown Jug." Nevertheless, the fighting spirit of Coach Schoen's proteges carried many of its members to varsity positions and made the rest a constant threat to first team men.

Walter Cramer, Harry Cripps, Don Law, Tom Snyder, Frank Slasinski, John Tallon, Wallace Thompson, and John Zaytsow were awarded minor letters.

Fred Riedlinger—Halfback

Injuries kept Fred from playing the last part of the season. He was the best blocker and good on end runs.

Earl Seymore—Tackle

Jumbo was never off his feet. The opposing team always found it impossible to make gains through his position.

Fred Stork—Tackle

"He saw his duty and he did it." Fred protected his part of the line and opened up holes for the backs.

Edwin Trier—End

Ed was a strong defensive man and also made his share of completed passes. He took a turn at punting occasionally.

Henry Wagner—Tackle

Rangy and fast, Hank found his main forte in cleaving down the enemies offensive thrusts around the ends.

Arthur Renwick—Manager

"Gimme this. Gimme that." Such is the song sung to the manager. Art worked hard and tended the boys' wants faithfully.

Basketball

COACH Anderson experienced fair success with his basketeers, as evinced by the record of six victories and seven losses. During the first semester the team had height and veteran material, but the mid-year graduation left a dearth of both. Speed, fighting spirit, and determination, however, made the Hillite team a potent factor in valley league circles.

The Lumberjacks started off right by defeating Caro and the Central State Intramural outfit, but a week later the Alumni reversed matters with a victory.

Entering valley precincts, the Hillmen lost to Bay City, but regained grace by setting down Flint Central. A victory was chalked up against Saginaw. Flint Northern won at Flint, but a victory over Owosso cleared the skies. Two valley games were dropped, playing Bay City and Flint Central, but a third was won when Flint Northern was barely beaten. Saginaw Eastern took a return game and a victory over Owosso closed the season.

Captain Howard Hanson
Guard

Hick combined aggressiveness with an abundance of skill to win an all-valley position. His concise method of playing acted as a balance for the squad.

Alex Collier—Guard

Al has played on Hillite quintets for three years. His type of play departs from individual performance and lends team-cooperation.

Albert Jahns—Center

Zoney did a good job at getting the tip-off at center and usually managed to take the ball from the backboards.

Stanley Fisher—Forward

Stan's capacity of getting hold of the ball paved the way for the offense. He was fast, shifty, and a good all-around man.

Harry Cripps—Forward

Harry, alternating at forward, displayed fighting spirit that made him a valuable man when the game was at its apex.

Charles Mayne - Forward

Guards found trouble in keeping the elusive Mayne in sight. "Chuck" presented brilliant floor work with a consistent knack of making points.

RESERVES

THE reserves attracted a lot of attention for themselves as headliners. In the valley league, they won six out of eight contests, while in five other games with non-valley opponents, three victories were registered. The results warrant a good squad next winter.

Freidinger

Morrison

Les Freidinger-Forward

The Lumberjack offensive was given a good share of its spark by Les. He combined basket making ability with a fine passing game.

Arnold Morrison-Guard

Arnie's ranginess made him a defensive star while his extraordinary manipulation of the ball provided an offensive threat.

Track---Baseball

WITH the return of a few veterans and the reporting of some hopeful material, any kind of a season was expected. Track experienced ordinary success last year and Coach Schoen looked for an enlargement this spring.

BASEBALL came under the tutelege of a new coach, Mr. Lee, this year. The early printing of the book discarded the narration of a record, but the enthusiasm and determination shown by the candidates predicted a successful season.

Golf---Cheerleaders

FOR the first time, Arthur Hill has an organized golf team. Under the tutelege of Coach Stanley E. Anderson, the squad has maintained a winning percentage of games. The schedule called for competition with city and valley league high schools.

THE pep squad did an excellent job of converting its own spontaneous spirit to response from the crowd. The quartet encouraged the teams, provided an outlet for the enthusiasm of the rooters, and did a lot toward preserving friendly relations.

THREE years ago the present intramural system was introduced into Arthur Hill by Mr. Donald Gebhardt, then assistant coach. With the adoption of the advisory plan the mural program found an expectant and eager field. The division of students into small unified groups with daily meetings created a decided spirit of rivalry.

The intramural board, composed of the athletic department members, has presented an activity list that offers participation to almost everyone. Volleyball, basketball, and softball are run off in tournaments. Horseshoes are an added attraction. An added embellishment has been the presentation of a loving cup to the winner of the boys' volleyball tournament by the Hi-Y and a basketball pennant by the Lettermen's club.

The interest of the student body reached its apex during the basketball tournament. Sixteen teams were entered in the tourney and competition was strenuous. The two leaders each lost a single contest and played off the tie in a three game series. The number of participants, the crowd watching every noon, and the interest displayed was a good barometer of what Arthur Hill thinks of the intramural system.

Intramural Sports

VOLLEYBALL TOURNAMENT

THE boys' intramural program got off to a splendid start with the volleyball tournament. Mr. Schubert's advisory group, Coxey's Army, won the right to have its name engraved on the Hi-Y loving cup.

ELIMINATION CONTEST

AN elimination contest was sponsored in which Mr. Dersch's Ramblers emerged winner by defeating the tournament winner, Mr. Trippensee's Boilermakers, and after a hard-fought game in the finals, Mr. Senn's team.

BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

THE tournament provided an exciting race all through its duration. It was played in round-robin style, that is, every entrant played every other team. After a close tournament ending with a three game play-off, Mr. Trippensee's Boilermakers won the Lettermen's banner.

ALL-SCHOOL TEAM

THE interest attached to inter-advisory basketball practically demanded an All-Intramural team. The squad of nine was chosen by Coach Anderson, Mr. Lee, and Assistant Coach Schoen. Honorable mention was given to Garber, Hanson, Houvener, Hooper, Krogmann, McFarland, Minard, Reinke, Shoskey, and Stock.

Girls' Intramural Sports

CLASS VOLLEYBALL

A volleyball contest opened the sport season for the athletically inclined girls of Arthur Hill. Any girl interested signed up with Miss Elizabeth Newman, girls' athletic instructor and coach. The entrees were divided into six teams and each team chose a captain. Each group played five games. Mae Maturen's, and Elizabeth Haar's, teams competed for the championship. Elizabeth Haar's team was the winner.

CLASS BASKETBALL

FOLLOWING the volleyball contest there was a basketball tournament among the gymnasium classes. Each class chose one team except the 10B and 11B classes, who had two teams each. The tournament was in the form of an elimination contest. The 12B team, with Ellen Boergert as captain and Alberta Lehmann as manager, was the final winner with the 10B-1 group a close second.

Advisory Basketball

AN ADVISORY group basketball tournament closed the girls' season in this sport. Each advisory elected a captain and a manager whose duties were to arrange the date and time of the games. The groups drew for numbers. The contest was an in and out plan, winners playing winners and losers, losers.

The K. P.'s won the championship in a final tussle with the Stalagmites, while the Flashes became the winners on the consolation side by defeating Burrier's Basketeers.

A basketball free throw contest was carried on at the same time. Any girl interested was privileged to enter. Alice Jones was the victor with 19 baskets out of a possible 25. Second place was captured by Helen Simon who had 17 baskets. Third and fourth place were given to Dorothy Aungst and June Cogan respectively.

Advertising

ADVERTISING is news. It is as important as any front page story; often more so to the reader because it directly concerns him.

In these days of economy it is even more essential than in the past. It brings the latest in pertinent bargains and services offered by merchants to the individual. Therefore, it is not only news to serve the curious, but a beneficial agent for both producer and buyer.

Publications also depend on advertising. Without it modern newspapers and magazines could not exist. It is, therefore, suitable that at this time the Arthur Hill News-Legenda expresses its appreciation for the cooperation of the business men throughout the year 1930-31.

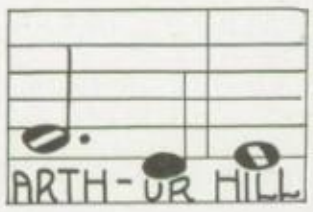
The First Glee Club



IN the pre-war days of 1911, the first girls' glee club ever organized in Arthur Hill was out "cutting up." The group was making its initial public appearance in this somewhat unconventional way.

When it came to singing, the club could take any of the veterans on a merry chase. Besides didn't it need practice to sing for commencement exercises on the following evening?

If it were practice that it needed, the little band of sixteen singers, including Clara Hantel, who later became Mrs. Wilber M. Brucker, certainly got its fill that night. For, after dashing from one teacher's home to another's, it wound up to the Secret Place of the Most High—the home of the superintendent of schools.

"The Charm School"

THIS year's junior play was Alice Miller and Robert Milton's "Charm School." The setting was in a girls' boarding school. Austin Bevans, Fred Riser, a young man with some very decided ideas as to the education of the fairer sex, inherited a girls' boarding school from his aunt. Homer Johns, Fred Stork, held a heavy mortgage on the school, but agreed to leave his money on the conditions that no girl should fall in love with Austin, and that Miss Hays be made second in command.

Austin took charge and taught the girls charm instead of the usual Greek and Latin. Four of Austin's friends arrived to teach. They were the twins, Jim and Ted Simpkins, Jack Garber and Ralph Cole; George Boyd, Francis Janicke; and David Mackenzie, Emery Lehan. Many of the girls fell in love with him, including the school's secretary, Mary Smith.

The most ardent of Bevans' admirers, Elise Benedotti, Ruth Greenwood, won his affection, and he lost the school, which Mr. Johns presented to his ex-wife, Miss Hays, Barbara Clark. The twins found something in Sally, Elaine Willemin, and made arrangements for their future.

Other girls who attended the school were: Muriel Doughty, Jane Kurtz; Ethel Spelvin, Edythe Sharpe; Alix Mercier, Cora Dewey; Lillian Stafford, Lelah Young; Madge Keat, Carolyn Harrison; Charlotte Gray, Helen Schomaker; and Dotsie, Jane Hatton.

The play was presented February 27, under the direction of Mr. Stanley Schubert, assisted by the class counselors, Mrs. Dorothy Giesel and Miss Mary Lewis.

Other people assisting in the production were: Mr. O. L. Poulson, head usher; Miss Elnora Laughlin, art and make-up; Mr. Ivan McCormack, orchestra; Gordon Hersem, business manager; Lyman Bittman, stage manager; Lydia Klippert, Alice Arnold, prompters; and Helen Powers, costumes.

DRY STEAM...the
super power of industry
DRY GAS...the super power for your car

TEXACO-ETHYL IS THE "DRY" ETHYL GASOLINE

Dry steam gives almost a third more driving power to the giant machines of modern industry. Likewise dry gas releases every ounce of its potential power in the cylinders of your car. In TEXACO-ETHYL, the dry Ethyl gasoline, there are no globules of raw, wet gasoline to resist the spark. Texaco-Ethyl enters the cylinders as a perfect vaporized mixture. This Uniform DRY MIXTURE assures an even charge of the Ethyl Compound to each of the cylinders. Result—an instant surge of smooth anti-knock power that shows itself in the brilliant pick up, speed and extra mileage that dry Ethyl Gasoline alone can give. STOP AT THE SILVER TEXACO PUMP for the super power anti-knock gasoline. The only Ethyl Gasoline sold in 48 States.

Foreground: Dale Goodwin, John Hooper, Edmund Arnold.

"The Poor Nut"

THE senior play, a three-act comedy, "The Poor Nut," by Eliot and J. P. Nugent, was presented to a more-than-capacity house.

Edmund Arnold gave a wonderful interpretation of the "Poor Nut," and Julia Brown, as Margie Blake, played a strong feminine lead. Ann Schabinger, as Miss Wisconsin, and Maurice Witbrodt, as captain of the Wisconsin track team, played convincing roles.

Others in the cast were: John Cramer, Ohio coach; John Hooper, Ohio captain; Clayton Cole, trainer; Louis White, college boy; Edgar Duclos, cheerleader; Arthur Dunlap, frosh; Dudley Raleigh, professor; Lawrence Renshaw, storekeeper; Robert Cay, announcer; Marion Sperry, Thelma Duffet, and Nellie Blakeman, co-eds; George Bolger, Fred Krause, Dale Goodwin, Avery Paxson, and Jack Spatz, runners.

As rooters in the grandstand during act three appeared Frank Abele, Phyllis Arnold, Reynold Basner, Ellen Boergert, Ruby Burrier, Arthella Bate, Mary Elizabeth Bunnell, Dorothy Crippen, Ruth Cardy, Muriel Conway, Ruth Dennis, Jean Ferguson, Dorothy Fyle, Elizabeth Kotrch, June Kruger, Robert Johnson, Angela Lees, Lila Mason, Margaret McDonald, Charles Mayne, Jean O'Brien, Sophia Pike, Elsa Porter, James Rankin, Betty Spamer, Marion Turner, Jack Tucker, Glenn Westman, and Waldo Vanek.

Students and faculty members who aided in the production are: director, Mr. Stanley Schubert; class counselors, Miss Ethel Peterson, Miss Coila Start; business managers, Walter Frisch, Alex Collier; publicity, Norman Schroedel, Robert Rosin; stage managers, Harold Gaertner, Fred Beckmann; costumes, Miss Elizabeth Newman, Arlene Labadie, Jeanette Badgero, Emma Schnarr; art, Miss Elnora Laughlin, assisted in make-up by Harry Bartlett and Elaine Selvin; prompters, Ferne Dyer, Letha Jameson; head usher, Mr. O. L. Poulson; and music, Mr. L. Russell Johnson.

"The Firefly"

THE music department stepped into the realm of modern comedy opera when it presented "The Firefly," by Rudolph Friml and Otto Hauerback, at North Intermediate school, May 22.

The opera has often been given by professional companies and requires considerable technique as well as good voices.

Those students in the A Cappella choir and girls' glee club who filled these requirements were chosen as principals with the result that Dorothy Ann Crippen and Jack Laurenz were given the leading roles.

Other members of the cast and the parts they depicted are as follows: Sybil Van Dare, Lexy MacIntosh; captain of the yacht, James Rankin; Suzzette, Ruby Burrier; Pietro, Robert Cay; Mrs. Oglesby Van Dare, Catherine Stafford; Jenkins, James Wellington; Geraldine Van Dare, Ruth Hammond; John Thurston, Lawrence Renshaw; Corelli, R. C. Aelick; Antonio, Louise Waidelich; a policeman, Carl Giessel; flower vender, Louise Rodes; tambourine woman, Ferne Dyer; Herr Franz, Frank Slaslinski. There were also five choruses making a complete cast of sixty-eight.

Those helping with the production include: musical director, Mr. Ivan R. McCormack; dramatic directors, Miss Burnice Gibbs, Mr. Stanley Schubert; dance director, Miss Elizabeth Newman; production managers, Miss Dorothy Fox, Mr. Edwin Jahns; stage managers, Lyman Bittman, Curtis Beckmann, Burnell Sperling; make-up, Miss Elnora Laughlin; costumes, Miss Florence Wells, Miss Bernice Francis, Miss Dorothy Fox, Miss Burnice Gibbs, the sewing classes; scenery, Harry Bartlett, Miss Elnora Laughlin, Mr. Robert Thornton, the art classes; publicity, Franklin Lewis; program editor, Miss Irma Stockdale; tickets, Miss Mary Thompson, Miss Georgiana Jones; head usher, Mr. Ralph Reynolds.
